PARLESPRINT · TCF CANADA

French A2. Build independence.

Twelve original units for understanding, speaking, reading and writing about familiar life in Canada.

COMPLETE COURSE · REVIEWER DRAFT · 13 OCTOBER 2026

All 12 planned A2 units are included. This copy contains the lesson source, original dialogues and stories, listening and reading tasks, writing and speaking models, answer key, audio scripts and vocabulary index. It is generated from the same authored chapters exported to the app.

Prepared for review by a fluent French speaker and a TCF Canada specialist. Human language, regional-use and audio review is still pending.

Scope This is an A2 learning stage. It is not an official TCF paper, proof of an attained CEFR level, a CLB/NCLC 7 result, or a guarantee of a test outcome.

REVIEW BRIEF

What to assess

The learner is an adult beginner in Canada. A typical study setup is ParleSprint on the left side of an iPad and personal notes on the right. The course uses explicit, concise English grammar support, then asks the learner to listen, read, speak or write in French, record a useful pattern and one error, close the notes, retrieve the language, and use it in a changed situation.

Each unit has original vocabulary and phrases, grammar, two practical dialogues, a connected story, listening and reading questions, a writing task, speaking practice, a TCF-style corner and a cumulative checkpoint. Most units add 48 new vocabulary entries; Units 1 and 12 add 45 each, for 570 planned new entries across A2.

Review the language and teaching

- Check French grammar, idiom, agreement, register and the English meaning of every vocabulary example, dialogue, story and model.
- Check that A2 language remains understandable for a learner moving up from A1, and that no explanation hides a required step.
- Check the order and completeness of the grammar sequence, especially the transition from completed past actions to background and event narration.
- Check Canadian context and label regional expressions clearly. In particular, review rental, transit, health-service, delivery and grocery wording for Ontario/Canadian use.
- Check every answer key against the supporting text or recording script; note ambiguous distractors and items with more than one plausible answer.
- Review the sound guides as rough English-language aids. They are not IPA and need a French speaker's correction; listen to the app voice separately.
- Judge whether each writing/speaking prompt is achievable at this point in the course and whether the model is a useful example rather than a script to memorize.

For comments, identify the unit, section and item ID; quote the words at issue; suggest a correction; and say whether it is a French-language, level, fact, answer-key or teaching issue.

Course time is a workload estimate

The plan allocates 14-16 focused hours per unit, or 168-192 hours for A2. That is an estimate for study, delayed review and independent transfer, not a calendar rule or a research-validated guarantee. At two hours a day, it is roughly 12-14 weeks if studied every day, or 17-20 weeks at five days a week. At four hours a day, it is about 8-10 weeks at five days a week. The learner should move forward based on delayed recall and unfamiliar-context performance, not screen completion alone.

The review cycle starts with suggested retrieval gaps of 1, 3, 7, 14 and 30 days, moving an item sooner when recall fails. The design combines adult-friendly explicit explanation with contextual French and repeated retrieval; it does not claim to reproduce how infants acquire language or that AI makes learning faster. Second-language meta-analyses support spaced practice on average and report positive average outcomes for generative AI chatbots, with variation across studies. Neither finding proves that this specific course accelerates French learning.

EXAM REFERENCE

What the official TCF Canada contains

The TCF Canada has four required components. The figures below follow the official France Éducation international overview and candidate information; recheck the current source before release.

COMPONENT	OFFICIAL FORMAT	TIME
Listening	39 multiple-choice questions; each recording is heard once	35 minutes
Reading	39 multiple-choice questions	60 minutes
Writing	3 tasks. Task 1: 60-120 words; Task 2: 120-150; Task 3: 120-180	60 minutes
Speaking	3 tasks with an examiner	12 minutes

A2 practice in this manuscript is original and progressively scaffolded. It practices short listening and reading items and the full Task 1 writing range; later writing and speaking task shapes appear as supported previews where stated. This is not a complete official-length test pack and does not claim that completing A2 is enough for a TCF or CLB/NCLC 7 result.

Official sources: France Éducation international: TCF Canada and official sample tasks.

In Canada The course uses fictional service, rental, transit and shopping examples. They teach language for asking, comparing and explaining; they do not give medical, tenancy, legal, billing or current-service advice.

A2.1

A week in my life: connect the details

AFTER THIS UNIT YOU CAN

Describe a familiar week in connected sentences, give a simple reason or contrast, ask for clarification, and write a short practical message.

THE SITUATION

An adult learner balances work, French study and daily responsibilities in Canada. The goal is to explain a real week, understand another person's schedule and keep the exchange going.

In Canada Use the schedule examples as language practice, not as current transit, clinic or workplace information. Real opening hours and service details change.

In Canada This unit is designed for split-screen study: make one short note in your notes app, close it, retrieve the pattern aloud, then reuse it with different details.

1.1 Words: habits and the shape of a week

Picture it: on Sunday evening, Awa checks her work and French-class schedule. One plan has changed, and she needs to explain why to a classmate. You already know days, times and basic present-tense verbs. Add the words that help you explain a week; before checking the English, listen and guess each from its example.

1.3 Grammar: connect ideas and explain why (g23)

At A1, you learned to make clear short sentences. At A2, keep the same clear word order and connect two ideas so the listener can follow your schedule, reason or choice. A connector joins ideas; it does not change the verb form.

A. add, contrast and give a reason

Choose the relationship between the ideas

CONNECTOR	WHAT IT DOES	EXAMPLE
et	adds information	Je travaille le matin et j'étudie le soir.
mais	shows a contrast	Je suis occupé lundi, mais je suis libre mardi.
parce que	gives a reason	Je reporte le cours parce que je travaille.
donc	shows a result	Le bus est en retard, donc j'arrive plus tard.

- Say the two ideas first. Then choose the connector that shows their relationship: addition, contrast, reason or result.
- After parce que, use a subject and a verb: parce que je travaille.
- Use donc for the result: Je travaille, donc je reporte le cours.
- Avoid joining every sentence with et. A precise connector helps another person understand your point.

B. put events in an easy order

A small sequence makes a longer answer easier to follow

ORDER	EXAMPLE
first	D'abord, je vérifie mon horaire.
next	Ensuite, je planifie mes tâches.
last	Enfin, je prépare mon sac.

Notebook move: write one true sentence about your week. Close your notes and say it again with a different connector. Tomorrow, retrieve the idea first, then rebuild the French without looking.

1.4 Dialogues: explain, check, repair

Listen for the main schedule first. Then notice how the speakers ask a follow-up question and check a detail instead of pretending they understood.

1.8 Writing: send a connected weekly message

WRITING 1.8W

Write to a classmate

TCF Canada writing Task 1 asks for a short message in the 60-120 word range. Write 60-80 French words to a classmate: describe two parts of your usual week, explain one change this week, give a reason, and suggest a time to meet. Use a greeting and a clear closing. Draft before reading the model.

Check your text:

- Write 60-80 words for this practice; the official Task 1 range is 60-120 words.
- Include the usual routine, the change and its reason.
- Use at least two connectors accurately.
- Check that each sentence has a subject and a verb.
- Close your notes and rewrite the message tomorrow from the key ideas only.

1.9 Speaking: explain your week, then adapt

SPEAKING 1.9S

Answer follow-up questions

First answer without notes for 30-45 seconds: what does a usual week look like, what is one priority, and when do you study or rest? Add one reason or contrast. Then ask Marie for one follow-up question. If needed, request one hint, try again, and ask Marie to change one day or responsibility so you must adapt the answer.

- Answer the question asked; do not recite the model.
- Use one connector to explain a reason and one to show a contrast or result.
- If you do not understand, ask for repetition or clarification in French.
- After one correction, repeat the answer with a changed day or activity.

1.10 TCF corner and checkpoint

2.3 Grammar: completed actions with regular -er verbs (g24)

For the verbs practised in this lesson, build the passé composé with the present of avoir plus a past participle. Most French verbs use avoir, but some common verbs use être; Unit 3 introduces a starter set. For a regular -er verb such as réserver, remove -er and add -é. The subject still controls the form of avoir.

A finished action: avoir + a regular past participle

SUBJECT	AVOIR	EXAMPLE
j'	ai	J'ai réservé une place.
tu	as	Tu as téléphoné hier.
il / elle / on	a	Elle a terminé son devoir.
nous	avons	Nous avons étudié ensemble.
vous	avez	Vous avez confirmé la visite.
ils / elles	ont	Ils ont préparé le projet.

- Look for the time clue, then ask: what finished action happened?
- Keep avoir in the present: j'ai, tu as, elle a. Put the main action in the past participle.
- Most regular -er participles end in -é. Hear the difference between je réserve (now) and j'ai réservé (finished).
- Do not add -s to the past participle with avoir just because the subject is plural: elles ont réservé.

3.3 Grammar: passé composé: common irregular forms and selected être verbs (g25)

Unit 2 introduced the passé composé with avoir and regular -er participles. This unit adds five common irregular forms used with avoir and a starter set of common verbs used with être. Learn the whole verb pattern, not just the participle.

A. Five high-value irregular forms with avoir

Passé composé: present avoir + past participle

INFINITIVE	PAST PARTICIPLE	EXAMPLE
faire	fait	J'ai fait une demande.
prendre	pris	Nous avons pris le train.
voir	vu	Elle a vu le numéro.
lire	lu	Vous avez lu le message.
avoir	eu	J'ai eu une réponse.

- Learn the participle as part of a pair: prendre → pris, then retrieve j'ai pris from memory.
- The subject changes avoir (j'ai, tu as, elle a, nous avons); keep the participle form shown in these examples.
- Put a time or order word beside the action so the listener knows when it happened.
- Do not guess the irregular form from the infinitive: voir becomes vu, not voi or voyé.

Choose the form that matches the meaning.

1. Hier, j'___ le message deux fois.

A ai lu
B ai lire
C suis lu
D lis hier

2. Nous ___ le train à huit heures.

A avons pris
B avons prendre
C sommes pris
D prenons hier

3. Elle ___ un détail sur le billet.

4. Tu ___ une demande au guichet.

B. A starter set of common verbs with être

INFINITIVE	PAST PARTICIPLE	EXAMPLE

arriver	arrivé(e)(s)	Le bus est arrivé à l'heure.
partir	parti(e)(s)	Nadia et Awa sont parties à huit heures.
venir	venu(e)(s)	Awa est venue au centre.
rentrer	rentré(e)(s)	Karim est rentré chez lui.

- These common intransitive verbs use être in the passé composé: aller, arriver, partir, venir, and rentrer. Learn the auxiliary with each verb.
- In writing, the past participle agrees with the subject in these examples: il est arrivé; elle est arrivée; ils sont arrivés; elles sont arrivées.
- Compare the two patterns: Sam est arrivé au centre; Sam a lu le message. The verb tells you which auxiliary to use.

- This is a starter set of common verbs, not a rule that every verb about movement takes être. Check the auxiliary when you learn a new past-tense verb.

3.8 Writing: recount one first experience

WRITING 3.8W

Write a message about a first experience

Write 60-90 French words to a classmate about a first experience in Canada. Say where you went, what you did, one thing you saw or read, and how you felt. Use at least two time-order words. The official TCF Canada writing Task 1 range is 60-120 words. Draft from key ideas before opening the model.

Check your text:

- Check that the message answers where, what and how you felt.
- Use at least two time-order phrases and keep actions in a clear order.
- Check each irregular pair: faire/fait, prendre/pris, voir/vu, lire/lu, avoir/eu.
- Count 60-90 words for this practice, within the official Task 1 range of 60-120.
- Close your notes tomorrow and recount a different first experience.

3.9 Speaking: give an unscripted account and handle a follow-up

SPEAKING 3.9S

Tell Marie about a first experience

Speak for 35-50 seconds about a first experience: a new route, class, appointment or activity. Say what you did, what you saw or read and how it ended. Ask Marie one related follow-up question. After her one focused correction, retell the account with a different place or activity.

- Use a few short connected sentences instead of translating every thought.
- If you forget a form, describe the action another way and keep communicating.
- Ask one genuine question, listen to Marie's response, and answer the follow-up in your own words.
- Use a changed prompt for your second attempt so you retrieve the language instead of reciting.

4.3 Grammar: set the scene, then report what happened (g26 + g27)

A clear past account often needs two jobs: describe the background or a repeated habit, then report a completed event. Use the imparfait for the first job and the passé composé forms already learned in Units 2 and 3 for the second.

A. Build the imparfait for past habits and descriptions

Use the nous present stem without -ons, then add -ais, -ais, -ait, -ions, -iez, -aient. Être uses ét-.

- Most imparfait forms start from the present nous form: nous parlons → parl-, then add the ending.
- Être is the main exception: its stem is ét- (j'étais, nous étions).
- Use it for a repeated past habit (chaque matin, je prenais le bus) or a description (la salle était calme).
- The endings -ais, -ait, and -aient usually sound alike; use the subject to choose the spelling.
- In your notes, write the stem and ending separately, then close the notes and rebuild one sentence from memory.

READING 4.3A

Use the pattern

Choose the form that matches the meaning.

1. Quand j'étais jeune, nous ___ près du centre.

A habitions
B habitons
C avons habité
D habiter

2. Chaque hiver, il ___ froid le matin.

A faisait
B fait
C a fait
D faire

3. Choose the imparfait form of avoir with elle.

A avait
B a
C a eu
D avoir

4. Complete: La pièce ___ une grande fenêtre.

A avait
B a
C a eu
D avoir

B. Choose the tense by the job the idea does

The left column gives a setting, description or usual action. The right column presents one finished event.

IMPARFAIT: BACKGROUND OR REPEATED HABIT	PASSÉ COMPOSÉ: COMPLETED EVENT
Le dimanche, nous préparions le repas.	Un dimanche, nous avons préparé le repas ensemble.
La salle était calme.	Le cours a commencé à neuf heures.
Il y avait une grande fenêtre.	J'ai lu le message avant le cours.
Je prenais le bus chaque matin.	Un matin, j'ai pris un autre bus.
Ma tante habitait près du collège.	Elle a visité le collège samedi.

- Use the imparfait for a past setting, description, feeling or repeated habit: la salle était calme; chaque matin, je prenais le bus.
- Use the passé composé to report a completed event: le cours a commencé; j'ai lu le message.
- The same verb can take either form. Ask whether you are describing what was usual or telling what happened on one occasion.
- Connect the two ideas with a time link: Je lisais quand le cours a commencé. The first action was in progress; the second is the event.
- Do not choose only from a time word. Un dimanche can introduce a repeated routine or one particular Sunday; the meaning decides.
- Draw one long background line and mark a finished event on it. Say the pair once with your notes, then once without them.

4.8 Writing: write a brief story with a background and one event

WRITING 4.8W

Tell a classmate what happened

Write 60-90 French words to a classmate. Describe a past routine or place, then tell one completed event that happened during that period and its result. Use at least two imparfait forms, one passé composé form and a time link. This is a short learning task, not a complete TCF writing task.

Check your text:

- Give the reader a setting or repeated habit before the event.
- Use the imparfait for the background and passé composé for the completed event.
- Include a clear time link and explain what happened next.
- Count 60-90 words and check that every subject matches its verb.
- Close your notes tomorrow and tell a different short story.

4.9 Speaking: tell a short story with a clear sequence

SPEAKING 4.9S

Tell Marie about a day that changed

Speak for 35-50 seconds about an ordinary past routine and one event that changed a particular day. Set the scene, say what happened, and explain the result. Marie asks one follow-up. After feedback, retell a different event without notes.

- Start with a scene or repeated routine using the imparfait.
- Use passé composé to report one finished event; keep the action sequence clear.
- Say what changed or happened as a result.
- On the retry, change the place, event and outcome rather than repeating the model.

4.10 TCF corner and checkpoint

These original practice items check whether you can follow descriptions, repeated habits and details in short texts. They are not official TCF questions. Use the checkpoint to retrieve language, then retell a different past routine without notes.

- After three and seven days, use the same language in a changed scene; bring back items that still need effort.
- Record one self-correction and one original sentence in your notes, then say the sentence without reading.
- Move on when you can do the transfer task with the notes closed; lesson completion alone is not mastery.

Organise work, study and future plans

AFTER THIS UNIT YOU CAN

Explain a study or work plan, understand dates and schedule changes, and make a simple prediction about what will happen.

THE SITUATION

5.3 Grammar: near-future plans and common future forms (g28)

French often uses the present tense of aller plus an infinitive for an intention. The futur simple also expresses plans, schedules and predictions. These forms can overlap; the choice does not mean simply 'soon versus far away'.

A. Near future: present of aller + infinitive

Keep the second verb in the infinitive: vais suivre, not vais suivrai.

PERSON	FORM OF ALLER	PLAN WITH SUIVRE
je	vais	je vais suivre un cours
tu	vas	tu vas suivre un cours
il / elle / on	va	elle va suivre un cours
nous	allons	nous allons suivre un cours
vous	allez	vous allez suivre un cours
ils / elles	vont	ils vont suivre un cours

- Use the present of aller with a second verb in the infinitive: nous allons vérifier; elle va participer.
- This pattern is common in everyday speech for a plan or intention. It can refer to a later date too; the date alone does not decide the tense.
- In your notes, change the subject in one plan: je vais suivre → nous allons suivre. Close the notes and rebuild the sentence.

READING 5.3A

Use the pattern

Choose the form that matches the meaning.

1. Choose the correct near-future form: Demain, nous ___ le dossier.

A allons préparer
B préparons allons
C irons préparer
D va préparer

2. Complete: Cette semaine, elle ___ au test de niveau.

A va participer
B participera va
C participer
D vont participer

B. Futur simple: endings and common stems

Add -ai, -as, -a, -ons, -ez, -ont. For an -re verb, drop the final e before adding the ending.

SUBJECT	-ER: PRÉPARER	-IR: CHOISIR	-RE: RÉPONDRE
je	préparerai	choisirai	répondrai
tu	prépareras	choisiras	répondras

il / elle	préparera	choisira	répondra
nous	préparerons	choisirons	répondrons
vous	préparerez	choisirez	répondrez
ils / elles	prépareront	choisiront	répondront

These common verbs use a special stem but keep the same six endings.

INFINITIVE	STEM	JE / TU / IL, ELLE	NOUS / VOUS / ILS, ELLES
être	ser-	serai / seras / sera	serons / serez / seront
avoir	aur-	aurai / auras / aura	aurons / aurez / auront avoir lieu	aur- + lieu	aura lieu	auront lieu aller	ir-	irai / iras / ira	irons / irez / iront
faire	fer-	ferai / feras / fera	ferons / ferez / feront

- For most verbs, start with the infinitive and add -ai, -as, -a, -ons, -ez, -ont. With -re verbs, remove the last e: répondre → répondr-.
- Learn the common future stems together: être → ser-; avoir → aur-; aller → ir-; faire → fer-.
- A plan can use either form: je vais suivre un cours and je suivrai un cours are both possible. Near future is especially common in conversation; futur simple is common for schedules, written plans and predictions.
- In a basic future condition, keep present after si: si le groupe est complet, je choisirai un autre horaire. Do not say si le groupe sera complet.
- Make a six-person ladder in your notes for one regular verb, then retrieve one irregular stem without looking. Use your own real schedule in a new sentence.

5.8 Writing: write about an upcoming schedule change

WRITING 5.8W

Message a classmate about your plan

Write 60-90 French words to a classmate. Explain your study or work plan for next month, give one date or time, describe a schedule problem and suggest a next step. Use at least one near-future form and one futur simple form. This is a guided practice task, not the full official TCF writing task.

Check your text:

- State the plan and include a concrete date or time.
- Use aller + infinitive for one plan and a futur simple form for another future action.
- Explain the schedule problem and give a realistic next step.
- Check future endings and keep present tense after si in a condition.

- Count 60-90 words, then close your notes and write a changed plan tomorrow.

5.9 Speaking: explain a plan and adapt it

SPEAKING 5.9S

Plan a course around your week

Tell Marie about a course, work or personal goal for next month. Give two schedule details, one reason for your choice and one possible change. Marie asks what you will do if the schedule conflicts with work. After feedback, make a different plan without reading your notes.

- Name the goal first, then give dates, times or a schedule condition.
- Use aller + infinitive for an intended action and a future simple form for what will happen next.
- Say why the plan suits your week; do not list dates without explaining the choice.
- On the retry, change the goal and schedule, and answer Marie's follow-up without notes.

5.10 TCF corner and checkpoint

- Move on when you can do the transfer task with the notes closed; lesson completion alone is not mastery.

6.3 Grammar: compare homes, features and quantities (g29)

Use comparison forms to show how two things differ or match. An adjective describes a noun; a quantity phrase counts a resource. The comparison word goes before the adjective or quantity phrase.

A. Comparatives and superlatives

Que* means 'than / as ... as'. Match the adjective ending to the noun: une pièce plus grande; des fenêtres plus grandes.

JOB	PATTERN	EXAMPLE
More / less	plus / moins + adjective + que	Le studio est moins cher que l'appartement d'une chambre.
Equal	aussi + adjective + que	Le logement A est aussi lumineux que le logement B.
More / fewer	plus / moins de + noun + que	Le logement B a plus de rangement que le studio.
The most / least	le / la / les plus / moins + adjective	C'est le quartier le plus calme.
Better / the best	un meilleur + noun / le, la, les meilleur(e)(s) + noun	Le logement B offre un meilleur accès au train. / C'est le meilleur choix.

- To compare two things, use plus ... que (more than), moins ... que (less than) or aussi ... que (as ... as).
- With a noun quantity, use plus de / moins de + noun: plus de rangement; moins de bruit. Do not add un after de in this pattern.
- For a superlative, add the correct article before plus or moins: le plus calme; la moins chère; les plus grands. The adjective agrees with its noun.
- Meilleur(e)(s) is the irregular comparative of bon: un meilleur accès means 'better access'. For 'the best', add the matching article: le meilleur accès; la meilleure option; les meilleurs choix. Use mieux with a verb; that distinction is for recognition here.
- Compare like with like and state the criterion. In your notes, write one real comparison for price, one for location and one for a feature; then make a recommendation without reading.

Lina asks her classmate Karim to help compare two fictional listings.

STORY

Quel logement choisir ?

Listing B describes a more spacious one-bedroom, with a washer and a private balcony.

Le logement B coûte cent dollars de plus par mois que le logement A.
Home B costs one hundred dollars more per month than home A.

Nadia prefers a short trip and affordable rent; she is not looking for a balcony.

Elle va visiter les deux logements samedi et vérifier les frais d'électricité.
She is going to visit both homes Saturday and check the electricity costs.

Après la visite, elle choisira le studio si le quartier est paisible.
After the visit, she will choose the studio if the neighbourhood is peaceful.

6.8 Writing: write an inquiry that compares what you need

WRITING 6.8W

Ask about a rental listing

Write 60-90 French words to a housing contact. Ask about two features, explain your budget or travel priority, and compare the listing with one other option. Use two comparison forms. This is an original guided message, not an official TCF task.

Check your text:

- Ask specific questions that the notice does not answer.
- Compare two homes on the same criterion and use que correctly.
- Use a superlative only when comparing a set of at least three or all available options.
- Count 60-90 words, then reread the adjective endings and monthly amounts.
- Close your notes tomorrow and write a new inquiry for a different home.

6.9 Speaking: recommend a home with evidence

SPEAKING 6.9S

Choose between two apartments

You have two rental notices and a monthly budget. Tell Marie which home you would visit first, compare price and travel, and ask one question that the notice does not answer. Marie changes one preference; reconsider your choice without reading your notes.

- Say the criterion before the comparison so the listener can follow your reasoning.
- Use figures from the notices and give a reason for your recommendation.
- Ask one practical question that is not answered in the listing.
- On the retry, respond to Marie's changed need and use a different comparison.

6.10 TCF corner and checkpoint

These original practice items train you to find a price, distance, feature or appointment detail in short everyday notices. They are not official TCF questions. Explain why one home fits a stated need better than another, then repeat the decision with an unfamiliar listing.

A2 Unit 6: retrieve, then transfer

- After one day, close your notes and retrieve five useful words and the grammar pattern.
- After three and seven days, use the same language in a changed scene; bring back items that still need effort.
- Record one self-correction and one original sentence in your notes, then say the sentence without reading.
- Move on when you can do the transfer task with the notes closed; lesson completion alone is not mastery.

A2 · UNIT 7

A2.7

Health appointments and getting help

AFTER THIS UNIT YOU CAN

Describe a health concern without diagnosing it, give useful timing details, ask for clarification and combine familiar information with qui, que and où.

THE SITUATION

A learner contacts a community clinic about a new concern, completes an intake form and confirms what information to bring.

In Canada Health-service routes, fees and referral steps differ by province and territory. The clinic and examples here are fictional and are not medical advice. For a real health concern, use the official provincial or territorial health service; urgent or severe symptoms need prompt help from local emergency services.

7.1 Words: appointments, health information and follow-up

This unit practises describing information for a qualified health professional; it does not teach diagnosis or treatment. In your iPad notes, write when a concern began, what changed and one question to ask. Close the notes and explain the situation in simple French.

7.2 Phrases: combine details instead of repeating a noun

Notice what each relative pronoun does. In your notes, join two short sentences about a place, document or professional; close the notes and say the combined sentence from memory.

Useful connected phrases

7.3 Grammar: relative pronouns qui, que and où (g30)

A relative pronoun joins information about a person, thing, place or time. It replaces a repeated noun and links the extra detail to the first part of the sentence.

A. Choose the pronoun by its job in the second clause

After qui, a verb follows. After que / qu', a subject usually follows. Où refers to a place or time.

PRONOUN	JOB IN ITS CLAUSE	TWO IDEAS → ONE SENTENCE
qui	Subject: it does the verb	C'est le service. Le service répond. → C'est le service qui répond.
que / qu'	Direct object: the verb acts on it	Voici le formulaire. La clinique demande le formulaire. → Voici le formulaire que la clinique demande.
où	Place or time: there / when	C'est la clinique. J'ai mon rendez-vous là. → C'est la clinique où j'ai mon rendez-vous.
qui	Person as subject	Je parle au professionnel. Le professionnel suit mon dossier. → Je parle au professionnel qui suit mon dossier.
que / qu'	Thing as direct object	Je garde le message. Le service a envoyé le message. → Je garde le message que le service a envoyé.

- Use qui when the missing noun is the subject of the next verb: le service répond → le service qui répond.
- Use que when the next clause already has a subject and the missing noun receives the action: la clinique demande le formulaire → le formulaire que la clinique demande.
- Before a vowel sound, que shortens to qu': la question qu'elle pose. The role stays the same.
- Use où for a place or time: la clinique où je consulte; le jour où le service rappelle.
- Ask what follows the blank: does the noun do the verb (qui), receive it (que), or name a place/time (où)? Use that test in your notes with a clinic, a form and a date.

7.8 Writing: write a clear message before an appointment

WRITING 7.8W

Contact a clinic with useful details

Write 60-90 French words to a fictional clinic. Give a neutral description, when it began, one timing detail and one clear question. Use one sentence with qui, que or où. Do not diagnose yourself or suggest a treatment; this is language practice, not a medical message template for urgent care.

Check your text:

- State the concern neutrally; do not write a diagnosis.
- Give the duration and one specific time or frequency detail.
- Ask one clear question about a document or next step.
- Check whether qui, que or où matches the job in the second clause.
- Count 60-90 words and close your notes before rewriting a different message.

7.9 Speaking: explain a concern and ask a follow-up question

SPEAKING 7.9S

Prepare for a clinic call

Tell Marie what information you would give a clinic receptionist: when the concern began, when it happens and what appointment you are requesting. Marie asks which document or next step you need to clarify. Use one relative clause, then repeat the explanation with a different timeline.

- Give timing and observable details, not a diagnosis.
- Say what appointment or information you need; a receptionist may route the request.
- Use qui for the person or service doing the action, que for the thing receiving it, and où for a place or time.
- On the retry, change the concern and timeline and answer Marie's follow-up without notes.

- After one day, close your notes and retrieve five useful words and the grammar pattern.
- After three and seven days, use the same language in a changed scene; bring back items that still need effort.
- Record one self-correction and one original sentence in your notes, then say the sentence without reading.
- Move on when you can do the transfer task with the notes closed; lesson completion alone is not mastery.

8.3 Grammar: direct object pronouns le, la and les (g31)

A direct object answers 'what?' or 'whom?' after the verb. If the noun is already clear, French can replace it with le, la or les. The pronoun normally sits before the verb it belongs to.

A. Choose the pronoun, then place it before its verb

Notice the verb forms in project messages. The object pronoun then replaces the repeated document: Nadia le relit; le comité la reçoit.

USEFUL FORM	MEANING IN THIS SCENE
La formatrice demande le plan.	The instructor asks for the outline.
Tu remets le fichier jeudi ?	Are you handing in the file Thursday?
Je joins la liste au dossier.	I attach the list to the file.
Tu envoies le compte rendu ?	Are you sending the report?
Nadia relit le compte rendu.	Nadia rereads the report.
Sam partage la version.	Sam shares the version.
Le comité reçoit la version finale.	The committee receives the final version.
Nadia a relu le document.	Nadia reread the document.
Les documents sont prêts.	The documents are ready.
Le plan doit être prêt vendredi.	The outline must be ready Friday.

The pronoun matches the noun replaced, not the speaker. Before a vowel sound, le and la shorten to l'.

ORIGINAL NOUN	PRONOUN	WITH A CONJUGATED VERB	WITH ALLER + INFINITIVE
le compte rendu	le	Je le relis.	Je vais le relire.
la version	la	Je la corrige.	Je vais la corriger.
les documents	les	Nous les classons.	Nous allons les classer.
l'ordre du jour	le → l'	Je l'organise.	Je vais l'organiser.

- Use le for one masculine direct object, la for one feminine direct object, and les for plural objects of any gender.
- Place the pronoun before a conjugated verb: je le relis; elle la corrige; nous les classons.
- With aller + infinitive, place it before the infinitive: je vais le relire; nous allons les classer.
- Before a vowel sound, le and la become l': la note → je l'envoie. The noun's gender is still the way you choose the pronoun.
- With a simple negative, ne and pas go around the conjugated verb: je ne le trouve pas. In your notes, replace the same noun in three sentences; then retrieve them without looking.

WRITING 8.8W

Confirm who will handle each document

Write 60-90 French words to a classmate or colleague. Name two project documents, say who will review or send each one and give a deadline. Use le, la or les at least three times with clear references. This is an original practice message, not an official TCF task.

Check your text:

- Name the noun before using a pronoun so its reference is clear.
- Match le, la or les to the noun's gender and number.
- Place the pronoun before the conjugated verb or before the infinitive after aller.
- Give each person a clear action and include a deadline.
- Count 60-90 words and rewrite the message with two different documents tomorrow.

8.9 Speaking: coordinate and clarify a document hand-off

SPEAKING 8.9S

Tell Marie who will review each item

Explain a small work or class project to Marie. Name two documents, say who will review or send each one and when it is due. Use le, la and les with clear references. Marie asks which document you mean once; clarify and retry with a different project.

- Say the document name first when a listener might not know what le, la or les refers to.
- Keep each pronoun close to its verb: je la corrige; je vais la corriger.
- Use the noun's gender and number, not the gender of the person doing the task.
- On the retry, change the documents and the deadline and clarify one reference without reading.

A2 Unit 8: retrieve, then transfer

- After one day, close your notes and retrieve five useful words and the grammar pattern.
- After three and seven days, use the same language in a changed scene; bring back items that still need effort.
- Record one self-correction and one original sentence in your notes, then say the sentence without reading.
- Move on when you can do the transfer task with the notes closed; lesson completion alone is not mastery.

A2 · UNIT 9

A2.9

Travel across the city and beyond

AFTER THIS UNIT YOU CAN

Ask for travel information, give or request something from a person, refer back to a place with y, and explain a simple route change.

THE SITUATION

Nadia and Karim travel to a community event. A service interruption changes their route, so they ask for details and confirm where to go.

In Canada The city, stops and service notices in this unit are fictional practice material. Transit agencies use different names and accessibility information; check the local operator for a real journey.

9.1 Words: routes, stations and travel changes

Before reading the route, mark the destination and the transfer point in your notes. Listen once, then close your notes and tell someone how to get there. Invented routes here are practice examples, not live transit information.

9.2 Phrases: ask a person, then refer to the place

Practise the full question once, then answer with a pronoun. In your notes, draw a tiny route and write what you ask a person and where you go. Close the notes and explain it aloud.

Useful connected phrases

FRENCH	SAY IT	ENGLISH
Je demande le quai à l'employée.	zhuh duh-MAH(N)D luh keh ah lah(n)-plwah-YAY	I ask the staff member for the platform.

9.3 Grammar: lui / leur and y for people and places (g32-g33)

French can avoid repeating a person or a place. First identify what the verb is connected to: lui or leur refers to a person after a verb used with à; y refers to a previously named place with common location patterns.

A. Give or ask something to a person: lui and leur

Read these useful travel forms aloud, then reuse one in a new route. They support the role-play; the target grammar remains the person and place pronouns.

USEFUL FORM	MEANING
La ligne est interrompue aujourd'hui.	The line is interrupted today.
Le service est interrompu aujourd'hui.	Service is interrupted today.
Tu demandes le quai à Nadia ?	Are you asking Nadia for the platform?
Nous manquons la correspondance.	We are missing the connection.
Tu donnes l'adresse à Karim ?	Are you giving Karim the address?
Les voyageurs lisent l'avis.	The travellers are reading the notice.
Le service habituel ne passe pas; une autre ligne le remplace.	The usual service does not run; another line replaces it.
Ils attendent au carrefour.	They are waiting at the intersection.
Ils montent dans le train et rejoignent le groupe.	They get on the train and meet the group.

Lui* is singular for a man or a woman. Leur is plural. Both go before the conjugated verb; with aller + infinitive, put the pronoun before the infinitive.

FULL PHRASE	PERSON PRONOUN	SHORT SENTENCE
Je demande le quai à Nadia.	à Nadia → lui	Je lui demande le quai.
Je donne l'adresse à Karim.	à Karim → lui	Je lui donne l'adresse.
Je donne le plan aux voyageurs.	aux voyageurs → leur	Je leur donne le plan.
Je vais expliquer le trajet à Nadia.	à Nadia → lui	Je vais lui expliquer le trajet.

- Use lui for one person and leur for more than one person when the taught verb takes à before that person: demander à, donner à, expliquer à.
- The pronoun replaces the person, not the thing: in Je lui donne l'adresse, lui means the person and l'adresse is what is given.
- Place it before the verb: je lui demande; je leur réponds. With a near-future verb: je vais lui demander.
- Do not choose lui by gender. One man or one woman both use lui; a group uses leur.

READING 9.3A

Use the pattern

Choose the form that matches the meaning.

1. Je donne le plan à Nadia. Je ___ donne le plan.

A lui
B leur
C y
D les

2. Je vais expliquer la route aux voyageurs. Je vais ___ expliquer la route.

A leur
B lui
C y
D la

3. What does lui replace in Je lui demande le quai?

A The person being asked
B The platform
C The station
D The route

B. Refer back to a place: y

In this unit, y refers to a named place with aller or être. It goes before a conjugated verb, or before the infinitive when two verbs are used.

PLACE NAMED FIRST	SHORT FORM	MEANING
Nous allons à la gare.	Nous y allons.	We are going there.
Nadia est au terminus.	Nadia y est.	Nadia is there.
Tu vas au centre communautaire ?	Tu y vas ?	Are you going there?
Je vais retourner à la bibliothèque.	Je vais y retourner.	I am going to return there.

- Name the place first, then use y to mean 'there': à la gare → nous y allons.
- Place y before its verb: j'y vais; elle y est. With a second verb, place it before the infinitive: je vais y retourner.
- In these patterns, y refers to a place, not a person. Compare je lui parle (to that person) and j'y vais (to that place).
- This unit practises y with common location patterns. Do not assume it replaces every phrase beginning with à.

READING 9.3B

Use the pattern

Choose the form that matches the meaning.

1. Nous allons à la bibliothèque. Nous ___ allons après le cours.

9.4 Dialogues: ask for help when a route changes

Listen for the place, the person who has the information and the action to take next. Notice that lui/leur points to a person and y points to the named destination.

WRITING 9.8W

Tell someone how you will get there

Write 60-90 French words to a classmate. Say where you are, name a service or route change, explain where you will go next, and ask one person for information. Use lui or leur and y at least once. Give a clear time or meeting point; use an invented route.

Check your text:

- Name the person or place before replacing it with a pronoun.
- Use lui/leur for the person in the patterns taught here; use y for a named place.
- Put the pronoun before its verb, including before the infinitive after aller.

- Write 60-90 words, then close your notes and explain the route aloud.

9.9 Speaking: ask for details and adapt the route

- Say who receives the question or information before using lui or leur if the listener might lose the reference.
- Ask one specific follow-up, such as the time or stop, rather than guessing.
- On the second attempt, change the route and explain the change with your notes closed.

A2 · UNIT 10

A2.10

Food, shopping and quantities

AFTER THIS UNIT YOU CAN

Ask for and compare quantities, keep the amount clear with en, explain a food preference and understand simple price or product information.

THE SITUATION

Karim plans a shared meal, checks the amount and ingredients, and chooses between two shopping options without buying more than he needs.

In Canada Examples use made-up products and prices. Prepackaged consumer food generally shows metric quantities; Canadian units can appear in some situations as well. Confirm the unit and amount when needed. Store return policies vary by business. Store return and refund policies vary by business. This lesson teaches language, not consumer or nutrition advice.

10.1 Words: packages, ingredients, quantities and value

Use your notes to build a short shopping list for a meal you actually eat. Cover the English meanings and retrieve the French items, then practise changing the amount without repeating the food name.

A. Replace the item and keep the amount

Read each quantity and its unit together. This helps you understand the amount before you replace the food with en.

Je prends deux barquettes de fraises.	I am taking two punnets of strawberries.
Nous gardons la moitié pour demain.	We are keeping half for tomorrow.
Je réchauffe le plat préparé.	I am reheating the prepared dish.
Une portion individuelle est prévue.	An individual serving is planned.

AFTER THIS UNIT YOU CAN

Explain a practical problem, give or follow short instructions, make a polite request with pourriez-vous or je voudrais, and confirm a next step.

11.1 Words: forms, deliveries, repair requests and service steps

11.3 Grammar: simple instructions and polite requests (g35-g36)

A practical request usually has three parts: state the problem, ask for one action and confirm what happens next. French uses the imperative for a direct instruction and the conditional of pouvoir or vouloir to make many requests sound more courteous.

A. Give or follow a short instruction: the imperative

These short messages reuse the lesson's document vocabulary and model one useful instruction.

SERVICE MESSAGE	MEANING
Le formulaire est incomplet.	The form is incomplete.
Il n'y a pas de copie recto verso.	There is no double-sided copy.
Il vérifie le formulaire.	He checks the form.
Gardez le numéro de confirmation.	Keep the confirmation number.

The imperative has no written subject pronoun. Use vous for an unfamiliar service contact or a plural group. With a regular -er verb, the familiar tu form drops final -s: tu coches → coche.

INFINITIVE	TU (FAMILIAR)	VOUS (POLITE OR PLURAL)	NEGATIVE INSTRUCTION
cocher	Coche la case.	Cochez la case.	Ne cochez pas la mauvaise case.
appuyer sur	Appuie sur le bouton.	Appuyez sur le bouton.	N'appuyez pas avant de vérifier.
attacher	Attache le reçu.	Attachez le reçu.	N'attachez pas le mauvais document.
choisir	Choisis une option.	Choisissez une option.	Ne choisissez pas sans vérifier.

- For an affirmative instruction, use the tu, nous or vous verb form without the subject: coche; cochons; cochez.
- For a negative instruction, place ne (or n' before a vowel sound) before the verb and pas after it: ne cochez pas; n'appuyez pas.
- Use tu only when the relationship is familiar. Use vous with an unfamiliar customer-service contact or when speaking to several people.
- For regular -er verbs, the tu imperative drops final -s: tu coches → coche. Other verbs do not all follow this pattern: tu choisis → choisis.
- Keep an instruction short and limited to the next action. For a request to another person, the conditional form may be more suitable.

READING 11.3A

Use the pattern

Choose the form that matches the meaning.

1. Choose the polite instruction for an unfamiliar service contact.

A Cochez la case obligatoire.
B Coche la case obligatoire.
C Tu coches la case obligatoire.
D Vous cocher la case obligatoire.

2. Choose the correct negative instruction.

A N'appuyez pas sur le bouton.
B Ne appuyez pas sur le bouton.
C N'appuyez sur pas le bouton.
D N'appuyez pas bouton le sur.

3. What happens to a regular -er verb in the familiar tu imperative?

A The final -s is removed: coche.
B The subject tu stays: tu coche.
C The verb moves after the object.
D The verb takes -ez: cochez.

B. Ask politely with pouvoir and vouloir in the conditional

For pouvoir, vous pourriez means 'could you'; for vouloir, je voudrais means 'I would like'. Keep the infinitive after pourriez or voudriez.

DIRECT INSTRUCTION	POLITE REQUEST	PURPOSE
Vérifiez le numéro.	Pourriez-vous vérifier le numéro ?	Ask someone to check.
Donnez-moi le délai.	Pourriez-vous me donner le délai ?	Ask for one clear piece of information.
Je veux une réponse écrite.	Je voudrais une réponse écrite.	State what you would like.
Confirmez le rendez-vous.	Voudriez-vous confirmer le rendez-vous ?	Make a courteous request.

- Use pourriez-vous + infinitive to request an action: Pourriez-vous vérifier le numéro ? The pronoun vous follows the verb in this question form.
- Use je voudrais + noun to state a request politely: Je voudrais une réponse écrite.
- A polite request still needs a specific action or item. Add a short reason or context if the other person needs it.
- The present form can sound direct in a service exchange; the conditional is a useful courteous choice. Tone and register also matter.

C Tu expliques la prochaine étape.
D Vous expliquer la prochaine étape.

11.4 Dialogues: describe a problem and agree on a next step

Track the three parts of each exchange: problem, specific request, next step. Notice when a short imperative belongs to an instruction and when a conditional is used to ask for another person's help.

11.8 Writing: write a concise service request

WRITING 11.8W

Explain the problem and ask for a next step

Write 60-90 French words to an unfamiliar service contact. State one problem, give a useful detail such as a tracking or confirmation number, make one polite request with pourriez-vous or je voudrais, and ask when or how you will receive a response. This is an original learning task, not a full official TCF writing task.

Check your text:

- State one problem clearly and include a useful detail.
- Make one specific request with a polite conditional form.
- Ask for one clear next step or time.
- Use an appropriate greeting and sign-off for an unfamiliar contact.

- Write 60-90 words, then close the example and retry with a repair or form problem.

11.9 Speaking: make a polite request and confirm the action

SPEAKING 11.9S

Explain a service problem to Marie

Role-play a short exchange with Marie as an unfamiliar service contact. Choose a missing delivery, bill question, incomplete form or repair request. Give one detail, ask for one action politely and confirm what happens next. Marie then changes one condition; adapt without reading a prepared script.

- Use vous in the service role-play unless the relationship is clearly familiar.
- Give the problem before asking for an action.
- Ask one polite question at a time, then listen for the answer.
- Repeat the next step in your own words so you can confirm it.

A2 Unit 11: retrieve, then transfer

- After one day, close your notes and retrieve five useful words and the grammar pattern.
- After three and seven days, use the same language in a changed scene; bring back items that still need effort.
- Record one self-correction and one original sentence in your notes, then say the sentence without reading.
- Move on when you can do the transfer task with the notes closed; lesson completion alone is not mastery.

A2 · UNIT 12

A2.12

A2 capstone: handle a changing week

AFTER THIS UNIT YOU CAN

Handle a new, familiar-life situation across listening, reading, speaking and writing; connect past events and future plans; ask for information; explain a choice; and notice what still needs review.

THE SITUATION

A learner's work, study and travel plans change during one week. She gathers details, adapts, asks for help, completes a short exam-style set and reports what she can do independently.

In Canada This capstone uses fictional schedules, services and prices. It checks language across everyday Canadian-life contexts; it does not certify a TCF score or replace a current official practice paper.

12.1 Words: schedule changes, exam clues and self-review

Keep the left side of the iPad lesson visible and use the notes app on the right. First try each scene without copying the model. In your notes, record one phrase, one grammar pattern and one error; close the notes before the final transfer.

- Before studying the table, cover the right column and try to make one original sentence for each grammar target from memory.
- Then compare your sentence with the cue. Note a useful correction without copying the entire example.

- Report listening recognition, reading comprehension, independent speaking and independent writing separately; one strong score does not prove all four skills.
- Repeat the capstone after a delay with new names, dates, places and a changed problem. Use the same grammar in a new situation.
- Move on to B1 when the A2 transfer tasks are reliable, not only when every screen is completed. Use the resulting profile to choose the first B1 reviews.

12.8 Writing: complete a Task 1-style practical message

WRITING 12.8W

Explain a change and make a plan

Write 60-120 French words to a classmate. Explain one schedule or route change, say what happened and what you plan to do next, give one reason for your choice, and ask for one missing detail politely. This capstone uses the official Task 1 word range, but the prompt remains original practice material.

Check your text:

- Address the right person and make the purpose clear.
- Connect a past event, the new plan and one reason.
- Use one polite request and make its reference clear.
- Keep the message within 60-120 words for this Task 1-style practice.
- Close your notes and write a second message with new dates and a different problem.

12.9 Speaking: show what you can do without a script

SPEAKING 12.9S

Tell Marie about a changing week

Part 1: speak for up to two minutes about your real or invented week; Marie asks two follow-up questions you have not seen. Part 2: complete a short information-gap role-play about a changed appointment or route. Part 3: give a supported 30-second opinion about which option you would choose and one reason. The last two are learning previews, not a claim that you can yet complete the full official oral tasks.

- Start with the main idea and add the reason or detail the listener needs.
- When Marie asks an unseen follow-up, answer it directly before adding extra information.
- Use a repair phrase if you lose a word: Je veux dire...; Pourriez-vous répéter ?.

- On the retry, change the situation and answer without copying the model.

12.10 TCF corner and checkpoint

This is an A2 learning capstone, not a TCF mock exam. Its original listening and reading questions practise common task formats. The writing block uses the official TCF Canada Task 1 range of 60-120 words. Tasks 2 and 3, and speaking Tasks 2 and 3, are only guided previews here; their full demands require later level work. Official current task lengths and timing are listed in the reviewer notes, not inferred from this lesson.

A2 Unit 12: retrieve, then transfer

- After one day, close your notes and retrieve five useful words and the grammar pattern.
- After three and seven days, use the same language in a changed scene; bring back items that still need effort.
- Record one self-correction and one original sentence in your notes, then say the sentence without reading.
- Move on when you can do the transfer task with the notes closed; lesson completion alone is not mastery.
